Rationale

Currently women are referred for hysteroscopy (whether that is in the outpatient setting or under general anaesthetic) when they have unscheduled bleeding on HRT, postmenopausal bleeding or abnormal perimenopausal bleeding as well as an abnormal endometrial thickness (usually determined on ultrasound). This audit will determine whether there are differences in outcomes in women who are referred in with unscheduled bleeding on HRT. This will be over the Weston and St Michael s site. It will also look at whether these women were offered a Mirena coil at the time of hysteroscopy to help with the abnormal bleeding they are suffering from. Collecting data on other risk factors, such as BMI and other health conditions, will help with control factors. Data will also be collected on the types of HRT women are taking and whether there are any preparations which are more likely to lead to poorer outcomes.
